

Career Discovery Power Questions

1. Does this job allow me to work with “my people” - individuals who share my sensibilities about life—or do I have to put on a persona to get through the day?
2. Does this job challenge, stretch, change, and otherwise make me smarter—or does it leave my brain in neutral?
3. Does this job, because of the company’s “brand” or my level of responsibility, open the door to future jobs?
4. Does this job represent a considerable compromise for the sake of my family, and if so, do I sincerely accept that deal with all of its consequences?
5. Does this job—the stuff I actually do day-to-day—touch my heart and feed my soul in meaningful ways?

“Harnessing the energy that makes great things happen.”
